In 1887, Judge Burnett, then a specia! started out from the capital city with several cases of Hogh Thompsons in ats official trunk, the principal suspicion attaching to these cases being of conspiracy to defraud the government by and through false personation. This particular Hugh Thompson who wes last seen, dead on the battlefield, was not known or considered in any way as part or parcel of the suspected bunea, but in the course of the invesligation of the others the government agent, following a blind trail stumbled upon the story of a lost soldler, one who did not know his own name, the organization with which he had served, the state he halled from, nor any part of his life prior to 1871.
